MEMBER BIO - Phyllis Edamatsu

I grew up in Spokane Washington, where I began taking accordion lessons at the age of 8 or 9 from Lucille Taylor, who had her own dance band, "The Gay Rancheros." I and a neighbor boy were her first students. I studied with Lucille until graduating from high school, and then for a few summers when I was back in Spokane. After that I played on my own, performing from time to time, usually at church functions. I played for a little while with a Mexican rock band and also jammed from time to time with accordion players who had gigs at German restaurants – in both Phoenix and El Paso. I moved to Delaware fall 2000 and not long after that joined the Delaware Accordion Club. I began studying with Stan and Joanna Darrow five years ago.

If anyone knows of an accordion event coming up,
please let the editor know.
